

Foreword

The time 1965-66 school year. The place . . . Port Huron Northern High School, Port Huron, Michigan. The event . . . the creation of a yearbook; a book uniquely capable of conveying a story of the year's greatest achievements by capturing action within a single word. The students and the adininistration provide the color and the mood to create academic and social scenery. The plot provides the ways and means of projecting students into the varied opportunities of bigh school life. On the pages that follow PHN presents an image of itself as a functional education center. Within its walls flows a tone of studied casualness and scholarly composure. Bound to its foundation by the introduction of sound traditions, Northem presents the "Spirit of ' 66 ".

Superintendent

Dr. Gerald S. DeGrow

Dr. Gerald S. DeGrow became Superintendent of Schools for the Port Huron Area School District in 1965, after serving as Director of Instruction since coming to this system in 1959. He received a Doctor of Education Degree in general School Administration from the University of Michigan, in 1964.

Dr. DeGrow is a member of the Board of Directors of the Michigan Association for Supervision and Curriculum Development and is a member of many other professional associations. For four years before coming to the Port Huron Area, Dr. DeGrow was Superintendent of Schools in Reese, Michigan.

school system

Exploration has stimulated the Board of Education to new areas of educational opportunities. Team teaching, individual instruction, and the initiation of Project Headstart are some accomplishments resulting from exploration accompanied by action. Other accomplishments are the modern facilities exemplified by: Thomas Edison Elementary, Sparlingville Elementary, Howard D Crull, Intermediate School, and various annexes.

Presently Board members devote much time and effort to current educational needs. The challenges of possible reorganization of the Port Huron Junior College and application for Federal funds for home study centers and remedial instruction programs are formidable. Increasing salary schedules to be comparable with those of other school districts is another urgent objective. These projects will be diligently studied and acted upon by the Port Huron Area School District Board of Education.

The facilities of the recently erected Thomas Edison Elementary School provide an ideal situation for the practice of team teaching and individual instruction.

Howard D. Crull Intermediate School presents a casual atmosphere for effective teaching methods and unlimited learning ability.

Crowded halls and classrooms, a shortage of teachers, double sessons from 7:00 a.m. until 5:30 p.m. every day, present the need for another high school.

Students took part in rallies and campaigned from door-to-door to inform and convince the citizens of the urgent necessity for a "YES" vote on the coming millage proposal.

Who could ever imagine Northern once looked like this?
The stage is set . . .

The decisions determining the fate of Northern were made at School Board meetings such as this.

Active citizens fulfill their duties as they go to the polls to vote on the millage issue . . . the one which provided funds for the much needed Port Huron Northern High School.

A beginning - the clearing of land, the placement of girders - the skeleton of a school.

Port Huron Northern is born

An important part of our future is determined by the evalua. on of Northern by the North Central Accreditation Team. Their decision determines the standings of the graduates from our school. The team made suggestions for improvement as well as commended the school on its fine tone.

The end result - a prize winner -

In January of 1965 , after much time and planning, Northern opened its doors for the first time . . . a school was born. The students, along with the community, busied themselves exploring the many facilities and features of the new school.

As the school developed, the recognition it received did also. In 1964 Northern was awarded a special citation for its design by the Exhibits Jury at the National Convention of the American Association of School Administrators. In January, 1966, Northern was described in the feature section of the American School Board Journal.

PHN has become noted for its team-teaching facilities, Instructional Resource Center, science laboratories and equipment, and a multitude of other modern conveniences.

Port Huron Northern has established itself among schools and is one which the community and students can be proud of.

Practicality, convenience, and

The Fine Arts were not forgotten at Northern. Between Band and Vocal there are six sound-proof practice rooms. Available to students are microphones and tape recorders which are used for selfevaluation and improvement.

The Aetna Drive-O-Trainer Simulator was obtained for PHN through the assistance of the School Board and the Independent Insurance Agents Association of the city. It simulates actual driving conditions through the use of films, while the students' reactions are recorded on an electronic board.

durability, the basis of PHN

Equipment plus describes the Automtive Shop at Northern. All of this helps students not planning to attend collegeto become technicians of the future by developing vocational or industrial skills.

Crucibles, test tubes, breakers, eudimeter tubes, Bunsen burners, electron microscopes, and dissecting kits are all a sampling of the equipment supply for the Science Department. For every two people in each of these classes there is a lab station consisting of a gas and water outlet, a sink, and basic equipment.

Northern was built with four separate grade centers, one for each grade. These centers contain six rooms, the last four open into one large room for the team-teaching methods introduced this year. Also housed in this area are the Grade Dean, Counselor, and Secretary for the respective grade. They handle all counseling, attendance, and supervision of that grade.

Students enjoy the excellent studying facilities in our modern cafeteria-study hall.

Mr. Overly - proud that Northern

Mr. James E. Overly, Principal of PHN since its birth, is looked upon by those affiliated with him as a merit to our school. His numerous jobs include coordinating the network of activities, meeting problems as they arise, maintaining a high academic quality and scholastic standard as well as a balanced curriculum for Northern. He has worked long and diligently for the welfare of the students and faculty and with the best interests of the community in mind.

He began his career as a teacher and principal at Grasslake, Michigan and was assistant principal at Port Huron High for two years before assuming the position of Northern's first Principal.

Through his assistance, interest, and cooperation, "You expect more from Northern, and you get it."

wins North Central Accreditation

At Northern's first Birthday Dance, Mr. Overly checks to see if the knife is sharp enough to cut the cake, as one of the cooks, Jo Ann Willis, assures him it is!

James "Batman" Overly, glad for a chance to rest, looks on as PH tries for a free throw.

Mr. Overly presides over a familiar scene - a regular faculty meeting.

Number 55 successfully matches his skill against a member of the PH faculty, as he assists in adding points to Northern's victory over PH.

Administrative

Mr. Raymond Morehead

Assistant Principal

Assistant Principal Raymond Morehead schedules all Port Huron Northern activities . . . assemblies, basketball games, concerts, banquets, and community events. In his casual, friendly manner he handles a multitude of responsibilities daily he schedules both student and faculty classes; he may greet members of the community; and he often presides at faculty meetings. His past experience serves as a guideline as he councils any special discipline problems which may arise.

Offices coordinate a multitude of activities

Mrs. Clara Wellman; Mr. Overly's secretary, efficiently handles the great quantity of correspondence at PHN. Her job calls for much detail work preparing payroll information for the non-certified personnel, teacher absences, and teacher substitute reports, as well as taking charge of the accounts payable for the Internal Accounting record of Northern.

At the helm in the main office is Mrs. Velma Shepherd patiently handling a myriad of details each day. Besides doing Mr. Morehead's secretarial work, she supervises the co-op workers at the PBX board and checks accounts receivable for the Internal Accounting record of the school.

The many facilities of the office are used to the upmost by faculty and student body.

Vocational Programs develop

Roberta Wooley and Helen Thieke help Evelyn Bloink to prepare lunch in the cafeteria kitchen. They are learning to become chefs by actual experience.

Michael Gladwish demonstrates an electronic project to the rest of his class as Mr. Richard Jinbo looks on.

VITECH Program-

 result of years of studyDuring the past summer, a few teachers have pooled their ideas and talents into a technological program which is commonly called VITECH. These teachers spent their summers studying further in their fields of teaching in order to prepare themselves for this program. The subjects taken by the boys are Vocational English, Vocational Math, Vocational Science, and Industrial Technology, along with the required Problems of Democracy and a study hall.

The VITECH program allows boys experience in many types of vocations from which to choose their futures.

Stanley Renner, Gordon Soflin, David Glenn, and Donald Pearson discuss plans for VITECH at one of their recent meetings.

needed skills for future workers

Vocational programs play a big part at Northern this year. Three main courses which teach a specific trade have become important to those students not planning to attend college.

The first, Vocational Kitchen Work, allows both girls and boys to learn to be chefs by actually working in the Cafeteria preparing food.

Another, Electrical Science, helps prepare boys for roles as electricians. Through mathematics and experiments, these boys learn to solve electrical problems.

The third, Trade Drafting, is a course given only at Port Huron High School. Each morning a bus load of boys from Northern goes to PH to take this threehour course.

These boys from Port Huron Northern participate in a Trade Drafting course at Port Huron High.

This group of boys is taking an active part in an Industrial Technology course which is part of the VITECH Program.

Throughout high school, the Social Studies program gives students the advantage of selecting courses among Civics, World History, American History, Economics, Sociology, and Government.

in Social Studies courses

The government, its functions, its importance, and itself, with relationship to that of other nations, combine to form the Social Studies department of Northern.

Freshmen become acquainted with the framework and institutions of the American Government through their Civics classes.

Sophomores acquire a knowledge of far-off lands in the study of World History. This course is an elective.

Juniors examine the nation and its relationship with the past in American History.

And, Seniors apply the knowledge they have with that which they are about to learn in the Problems of Democracy class - a combined study of American Government, Sociology, and Economics.

Craig Bruce points out a strategic spot in the invasion of Rome by the Teutonians, as other pupils take notes on an explanation by Mrs. Eugenia Becker in World History.

"You have a question about the war in Viet Nam, Fredrick (Slyford)?" asks Edward Kibbie, as he assists Mr. Thomas Hamilton in teaching an American History class. Mr. Thomas Hamilton is recovering from the last answer.

Gordon McKelvey, Douglas MacRury, Alan Sparr, and Peter Rossman, who are participants in Mr. James Dickinson's Civics class, point out places of importance in the Port Huron area. These boys are among those who made special reports on our city while studying its government.

12th Grade Center is

Mr. James Duncan, Problems of Democracy teacher, observes the Government class as the students take notes on the Federal Constitution.

setting for Problems of Democracy course

Miss Mildred Rush pauses to help a student in her World Problems course. The subject of study is the government of many different countries in the world.

This year, the American Government, Sociology, and Economics courses were combined to form a new course, Problems of Democracy, which is required of all Seniors.

The plans for this new idea in teaching call for scheduling students into large classes under the direction of three teachers and is conducted on a team-teaching basis. Each teacher is in charge of instruction a week or two. Tests are given at the end of each of these periods and the final grade for a student is the average of the three grades.

The three teachers, Miss Doris Warren, Mr. Cyril Smith, and Mr. James Duncan, who are all masters in their own field of teaching, combine to give the students a fundamental understanding of the vital subjects.

A local insurance man, Mr. Herbert Frazier, explains life insurance to a group of Problems of Democracy students. In a program such as this, there is time provided for speakers to come in and talk to larger than average classes. It benefits the students in many ways.

Literature and grammar books for the 9 th, 10 th, 11 th, and 12 th grades provide students with the fundamentals and details of accurate, effective writing. Various types of novels are also used as a source for studying writing styles of authors.

concentration and self-expression

The Speech Program at Port Huron Northern provides many facilities for the development of the individual's needs. The speech room, one of the largest classrooms in the building, is equipped with a tape recorder, podium, and microphone. With these advantages, the student may further explore the art of public speaking, polishing his techniques, and gaining assurance and poise.

The Speech Class, an important part of the English Department, offers the student an opportunity to excel in the field of self-expression. As each student acquires the speaking skills, he soon masters the art of constructive criticism. This, in turn, provides an ideal practice situation, whereby each can improve and overcome any barriers to successful public speaking.

As Bennetta Pierce presents her speech to Miss Pamela Gray's class, Michael Wilson dreams up his speech.

Nathaniel Hawthorne's writings capture the interest of Seniors, Patti Aikman, Lawrence Nestle, MaryLee McIntyre, and Jane Russell, in Mr. Lawrence Miller's American Literature class.

Individual interpretation plus class

The value of a good education is based upon the knowledge of English and its functions. The school life of students is surrounded by words and sentences. English offers an understanding of the fundamentals and specifics of grammar. The study of composition and literature increases the knowledge of the students, and it develops an awareness of the functions of each. The English program provides for the students' needs. Just as students are divided according to their capability, awareness, and achievement, the English classes are planned to suit the particular interests and needs of each student.

Included in the various types of classes are those for honor students and those created under the VITECH program. Team teaching, new to PHN this year, provides the students with a broad knowledge of more than one aspect of English instruction. Under this type of program, each teacher offers the student a study of the division of English that is his specialty.

American Literature comes alive to the honors section with the portrayal of plays. Here, Jack Foster, Deborah Ludlow, and Wendy Wilkins read from The Crucible under the watchful eye of Mrs. Edythe Patterson, who teaches this enthusiastic group.

discussion molds our English studies

Seniors find delight in Mr. Homer Sims' class as they listen to his comments concerning short stories. Mr. David Glenn also instructs the class through the team teaching program.

Mr. Irvin Hayward's ninth-grade English class directs their attention toward panel members Jill Summers, Cynthia Reynolds, John Sparling, Karen LaVere, and Ronald Jackson.

Miss Ruth Meyer's Honors English class offers Sophomore, James Crowl, a challenge in both literature and creative writing.

A new school paper -an efficient staff

The school paper staff jumps eagerly into action with the start of the new school year. First, a subscription drive is held. The goal is exceeded; $73 \%$ of the students subscribe.

Next a contest is held to choose a name. The students and faculty respond to the challenge. COMPASS is the name plate. On October 7, 1965, after weeks of preparation and planning, Volume One, with the lead story: "PHN Starts First Full School Year," circulates among students and faculty. The paper is ardently accepted. The many hours worked by staff and sponsor shine through in this -- Volume One -- as well as in following monthly editions.

Besides publishing the COMPASS, the staff members are active in many events. They report news to the Port Huron Times Herald on subjects of interest to the community. Also, at Christmas the staff organized a drive to send kits to children affected by the Viet Nam conflict.

An active part is taken in an exchange program between schools. Newspapers from over 25 high schools are received and reviewed. Through this program the staff keeps an up-to-date viewpoint of high school journalism.

The COMPASS serves its readers well by keeping the student body informed of all facets of the Northern school Efficient Editor-in-Chief, Jerie Norman, has worked on the newspaper staff for four years. She served as a Reporter, Page Editor, and Business Manager before attaining her present position, which she has held for two years. Supervision of assignments, proofreading, and meeting deadlines are all part of her job. The staff realizes that Jerie's wide experience is a great asset to the publication of the COMPASS.

life.

Reporters Julie Kuhn, Jane Payton, Barbara Bailey, Douglas George, Amy Coen, Bonnie Thayer, and Mark Rademacher, fulfill a variety of jobs. These include writing articles, typing, interviewing, and enjoying themselves as they work.

"Buy-a COMPASS; Yea, yea, yea !" are lyrics sung by James Chester, Mark Rademacher, and James Crowl in a noonhour hootenany during the subscription drive.

As Susan Henry copyreads an interesting article written by a staff member, Barbara Bush, Editorial Page Editor, determines where it will be positioned.

"That looks like a good shot," points out William Sharp, COMPASS Photographer, to Wayne Sparling, his Assistant. Both also work on the Sports page, William serving as Sports Page Editor.

Miss Nancy Hedstrom, COMPASS Advisor, offers fresh ideas which greatly assist the staff in the production of the newspaper.

Paula Meredith, Business Manager, and Elizabeth Sheehan, Advertising Manager, measure advertising space as Cynthia Meinhart, Assistant Business Manager, types statements to the advertisers.

As Christine Schattler, Exchange Editor, refers to the file to get information on other high schools' activities, Linda Furstenau, Front Page Editor, consults Pamela Neal, her Assistant, concerning the events to be included in the next issue of the COMPASS.

Mathematics, a science of quantities, magnitudes and the relationships between them, is an important factor in our lives.

The final year of Math offered is a combined course of Solid Geometry and Trigonometry. In Solid Geometry students deal with figures in a three dimensional area, while in Trigonometry, students study parts of triangles and their relationships to one another.

With the wide selection of courses offered, students have the opportunity to acquire knowledge of basic principles and theories, and their functions as related to every-day life.

Science is to the modern"

Science is knowledge acquired by study whether it be of the mind and its components or of matter and its elements. Scientific knowledge is acquired through analysis and observation.

The students of the various science classes are introduced to the study of the earth, electrical circuits, organisms, chemical make-up, and how these combine to form the world in which we live.

The different classes which form the science program enable the students to choose the study which best suits his interests, whether it be biology or chemistry or another one of the many courses offered to the students.

a linguistic fluency

This array of textbooks, film, and recording tape strikes a familiar scene to those who take foreign language classes.

Language has many tongues. The main source of communication is based upon language. How interesting it all becomes when one ventures to far-off lands through the study of a language's fundamentals and differences. Included in the Language Department at Northern are four years of Latin, three years of French, and four years of Spanish. Each language includes a study of its grammar structure, composition, and conversational techniques. Equipped with a language laboratory, the school provides ample opportunity for the students to master the speaking skills of each language. Not only may the student listen to accomplished linguists through individual earphones, but he may also tape his own voice in the hopes of correcting his mistakes.

French students question Mr. Edgar Thomas about the various places he visited while touring France last summer. Andrew McLean points out the cities mentioned.

"Latin is a key to English." This quote, taken from a Latin textbook, simplifies the thoughts of Latin students as they listen with interest to Miss Zoi Kozoni.

Art Education is primarily concerned with the examination, evaluation, and production of man-made visual form. There are three basic objectives: first, to create through visual symbols forms of our environment both past and present; secondly, to develop new insights through observation, selection and judg ment; and finally to influence individual and societal attitudes toward artistic behavior.

begun at Northern this year

The three girls who make up the Trio from the A Cappella Choir are Jane Payton, Cheryl Older, and Nancy Evans.

This year the Choral Department at Northern has expanded greatly. Added to the already popular A Cappella Choir and Girls' Glee Club were a Festival Choir, made up of ninth and tenth grade boys and girls; a Madrigal Group, made up of members of the A Cappella Choir; a Girl's Sextet and a Three times Three + One group, all from the Girl's Glee Club; and a Girl's Trio, from the A Cappella Choir. The various choirs participate during school assemblies and also perform for the community. The Choral Department, under the direction of Mr. Joseph V. Airtene, is a progressing part of Northern's curriculum.

These girls, Marsha Hayden, Gail Perkins, Hollis Wegener, Christine Moore, Sharon Smith, and Lynn Kramp, make up a Sextet from the Girl's Glee Club.

for future roll in life

Clothing, Foods, and Home and Family Living are the three divisions of Home Economics. Students not only learn new skills and develop creative ideas, but they put these skills and ideas to practical use. Vocational Service is a new class added to the department this year.

Students in Clothing classes use their talents to benefit themselves. This class provides instruction on choosing quality materials, and easy and proper methods of construction. Students also learn the fundamentals of good grooming, good personal appearance, and how to buy ready to wear clothing which will suit the individual girl.

From the open door of the cooking room comes the aroma of fresh pies and warm cookies. But cooking is not the only thing these pupils do. They learn how to set a table properly and attractively, how to furnish a kitchen and dining room appropriately, and show these skills by their participation in occasional teas.

Boys, like John Baker, who enjoy the smell of freshly baked pies throughout the halls, learn how to bake their own in cooking class along with Joan Kearney and Carol Gross.

From the word go, the Physical Education Classes at Northern sparkle with that little extra enthusiasm under the instruction of its capable teachers and student leaders.

Physical education plays an important role in the development of Northern students. Not only are they given an opportunity to participate in activities including games, sports, and an over-all conditioning exercise program; but they also are given practical training in First Aid. Exercises vary from Swedish gymnastics in the girls' Gym classes to strenuous calisthenics in the boys' classes.
All this and more constitutes the training Gym classes receive.

Hitting the heights comes easy for Peter Rossman who demonstrates his talent with great skill.

Study, simulator, and experience yield

William Morrison Department Head

Faintly comparative to Roman galley slaves are the Drivers Training students feverishly spinning their wheels as Mr. William Morrison shouts, "Watch that car (truck, stoplight, etc.)!"

All equipment present in an actual car is supplied in the mock car. It is provided with: ignition key, steering wheel, horn, speedometer, temperature gauge, emergency brake, and many more devices. The student operating the car has the advantage of learning the steps in operating both automatic and manual shift transmissions. Mirrors are used to create an opportunity to learn the proper techniques of driving in reverse. These facilities enable students to study all facets of driving.

Drivers, Clara Johnson, Linda Lincoln, and Christine Riehl, will be observed by Mr. Harland Perry, instructor. Under the new system, an increase of two hours of driving per student allows three hours in which he is observed and tested by instructors.

Mr. Williarn Morrison sets up one of a library of sixteen films which expose stucients to various traffic situations.

practical Driver Education Program

The Driver Education Program at Northern has been revised since the Port Huron Association of Insurance Agents and the Port Huron Area School District provided the new Aetna Drivotrainer Simulator. Although thirty hours of class room study required by state law are still provided, driving experience in actual traffic is increased from one to three hours per student.

The combination of the Simulator coupled with the actual behind-the-wheel driving provides a complete program of Driver Education.

The Simulator is an electro-mechanical device enabling twelve students at one time to practice driving in mock cars. Various traffic situations are shown in a color motion picture on a wide screen. A library of sixteen films exposes the student to traffic situations which they might encounter: the operation of both automatic and manual shift cars;city, rural, expressway, and bad-weather driving; and procedures in back, parallel, and angle parking. The driver responses are registered on the master recorder and a continuous record is kept on the progress of all students.

Mr. William Morrison refers to the master recorder to show students, Robert Edmondson and Marcia Bland, the areas in which they might

prepare now at Northern

The Industrial Arts Program at Northern is a stepping stone to the future for many boys. It enables them to learn a trade while still in high school.

The school provides an excellent place for the precise work of Auto Mechanics in a large garage filled with many modern mechanical conveniences. The boys work on their own cars and take cars apart all the way down to the frame. An even better achievement than this is putting a car back together, which they also do.

In Power Mechanics classes, boys learn the way to repair many types of motors. This knowledge could help these boys earn a living in the future.

Many boys at Northern take advantage of the excellent Industrial Arts courses.

Donald Collinge, Gary Semrow, and William Graves work on the under side of a car. The specialized equipment at Northern makes it possible for them to learn Auto Mechanics more extensively.

Michael Gossman and William Graves work on vital parts in a car's engine in a class instructed by Mr. John Shanahan.

Michael Helmrich, James Beckett, and Roger Thompson are participants in a Power Mechanics class taught by Mr. Richard Baker. At the present, they are rebuilding old motors which they brought to school.

Well-written textbooks and interested teachers expose Northern students to the many facets of the Business Education area of instruction.

are achieved in Business Education

Questions concerning consumer credit are discussed in Mr. David McEwen's General Business class.

Business Education provides students with specialized vocational training as well as essentials for personal use. Students under this program gain an understanding of the nature and functions of business.

Typewriting students learn to operate the machines with skill, accuracy, and speed. Shorthand, the professional language of the business world, develops writing skill and efficiency.

Other courses in Business Education such as Office Machines, Office Practice, Bookkeeping, Retailing, and General Business expose the students to the knowledges and skills of the business world.

Careful study and analysis of selling techniques are stressed in Retailing.

Senior . . . a person of higher rank or position denoting the final year in high school. His abilities have been measured and his pursuits are ready to be met. His endeavors to meet the challenges of high school life will prove rewarding in his attempts to acquire the positions of tomorrow's leaders.

His likeness is that of a pole, a pole which when raised will stand tall and straight and independent casting itself to its surroundings.

But before he stands ready to meet the challenges of others, he must be erected by experience and intention. Once he has been straightened he is then accepted by the world in which he will live, distinctive in character . . . an individual.

An Impression . . .

Within the corridors of tomorrow an Impression is moving - slowly - experience at his left and intention at his right. He is carving away doubt and uneasiness by seeking logical answers and solutions to his problems. Guidance and understanding have a reassuring effect upon him.
As changes in his character and ability mold predominant features into his outline, he thus moves with a pace of near sureness and aims his ideals toward activities of self-expression. Upon acquiring new and invaluable potentialities, he becomes an Impression of future objectives. His title shall be Sophomore.

An Individual

The door reopens. Out steps the profile of a man. The halls are bare of those like him. He came the mere image of beginning. He leaves the proud beholder of memories; memories that molded his character. He has chosen a road to follow. This road, like open doors, will lead him to the challenges of the future. The hands of experience have done their work.

The profile is precise. The years of shaping and forming have ended. But years of precision in mind and character are just beginning. With diploma in hand, pride in heart, and goal in mind, he emerges an individual . . . again an image of the future. His title shall be Senior.

problems at Senior Government Day

Each year one day is set aside for Senior Government Day. Twelve high schools in the St. Clair County area participate in discussions which are concerned with local government. There are 35 separate discussion groups, all of which have a different topic. Six of these discussion groups are from Northern and they discuss the problems of Education, Racial Problems, and Taxation.

From the Senior Government classes are chosen discussion leaders and a Committee on Arrangements, which handles scheduling of Northern students for the discussion groups. The proceedings are held at the McMorran Arena, and the afternoon session of discussion groups is held at the Port Huron Junior College.

In order to keep on record what is said during Government Day, there are six girls who act as recorders. They are: Laurie Keith, Susan Hancock, Cheryl Parker, Marsha Biernot, and Susan Hess. Christine Schattler was absent when the picture was taken.

An opportunity, a challenge, a

For a new school, new traditions must be set. During Northern's development the challenge of those decisions was met and resulted in triumph. The Senior class met its first decision worthily by choosing blue and gold caps and gown, which are proudly displayed by class officers, Charles Dobson, Thomas Coleman, Barbara Stewart, and Judith Sparling.

Many of these choices were also the responsibility of the Student Council: the school colors, blue and gold; the mascot and nickname, Huskies; the ring; the flag; and the seal, which is held by the first- and second-semester Student Council officers, Mary Ellen Hensel, Larry Setter, David Eppley,and David Williams.

The Fine Arts Department also responded well. Anthony Loope and Lynda Smith model the A Cappella Choir robes, while Linda Elliot and Nancy Cordell show examples of the band and majorette uniforms.

The athletes project the image of Northern through their various uniforms of blue and gold, such as: Varsity football worn by Thomas Dagg; baseball, Thomas Stafford; wrestling, Orville Howe; tennis, Lawrence Nestle; basketball, Alan Dicer; and track, worn by Dale Larson. The cheerleaders, Varsity, Candace Cordes and Junior Varsity, Sandra Dimon, who promote the spirit of Northern, also display their uniforms in style.

These traditions represent a challenge met and a proud school, which once again proves, "You expect more from Northern, and you get it."

decision $=$ a triumph of new traditions

The Northern lights shine on

The "Mardi Gras 'Girls,'" Gerald Weaver, Dan Deligianis, Charles Dobson, Douglas George, Marshall Wittliff, and Larry Setter succeed in arousing the spirit of the students during the assembly.

A day in the school life of Port Huron Northern was captured by an idea, and this idea was developed into an overwhelming success of periodic events and unstaged incidents. The day had come. Precision for the outside events had been arranged and all was set to go off on schedule. The clocks moved slowly as the students glued their eyes on the minute hand.

The bell rang, the halls filled, the halls emptied; the life of Northern stampeded to the new scene of events.

These senior girls, Nancy Flinchbaugh and Melanie McIntosh, merely laugh while accepting this rope-pulling challenge from the sophomore girls.

During the afternoon activities, students Michael Anglebrandt and Robert Papi-

The night was alive with activity, and the band was set to go.

The stampede had re-assembled and met at the steps of Northern.

Restraining her tears, Queen Karen Richards joyfully reigns over the Mardi Gras dance.

The success of Mardi Gras radiates through the imaginative costumes and sparkles on the smiling faces of Daniel Jurn and Gwyneth Roberts.

Imagination is Northern's key to success

The theme "Feast of the Great Pumpkin" was ingeniously developed by the Juniors as a first-place winner.

"Her Majesty's Royal Court," presented by the Senior class, served its purpose well holding the position of third place.

generous and joyous students

Paula Meredith and Amy Coen arrange an attractive showcase display for the Compass drive.

The Compass Staff, under the directions of Miss Nancy Hedstrom, sponsors a drive for the needy in Viet Nam at Christmas time A number of students donated articles for the many kits.

The A Cappella Choir and Band convey to their fellow students the mood and splendor of the season through sacred and secular music which promotes the feeling that Christmas is a time of giving and sharing.

Memories of a stately era - The Old South

David Williams, Decorating Chairman, works with the crew in setting up the background.

The date is April 30,1965. The time is 9:00 p.m. The setting is Port Huron Northern High School. The event - the presentation of Northern's first Junior Prom.

Decorations are centered around the theme, "Moon River." On the dance floor, the Continentals play appropriate music from a mock southern river boat gliding under a moon-lit sky. Refreshments are served in the garden of a mansion on the river bank, while another phase of river life is portrayed by a warehouse mural. An array of fish nets on the walls, and marine centerpieces on the tables add the final touches to the atmosphere.

Frances Gilbert, Thomas Coleman, Janice Ploeger, and Larry Cressman enjoy the enchanting atmosphere of the Old South while they dance to the music of the Continentals.

is portrayed through "Moon River"

Through the efforts of Michael Touma, Class President and General Chairman; David Williams, VicePresident and Decorations Chairman; Cecilia Kramp, Treasurer and Refreshments Chairman; Karen Richards, Secretary and Publicity Chairman; and many other enthusiastic members of the Class of ' 66 , the first annual PHN J-Hop is a success!

Successful magazine sale

At the beginning of the magazine sale there was a kick-off assembly and our goal was set at $$ 7,500$. Here David Eppley, Student Council President, delivers a pep speech to the student body encouraging them to sell as many magazines as possible.

Mr. Joe Shields hands out money to Leanne Millard, Karen Blizzard, Marcia Bland, and Mark Johnson, since their names were drawn out of the treasure chest at the beginning of the sale.

exceeds its goal

The first top-five salesmen and their prizes are: John Kennedy, fifth place, who wins $$ 50$ or a gift certificate; Marshall Campbell, fourth place, who wins $$ 50$ or a gift certificate; Lorolie Brown, third place, who wins a $$ 100$ Government bond; Paula Meredith, second place, who wins a portable TV; and Charles Barrett, first place, who wins the tape recorder.

David Collins, the treasure chest winner of $$ 35$, happily walks up to receive his money from Carol Hollenshead. Charles Krause and David Williams manage the money to be given to other cash winners.

Mary Ellen Hensel and Nancy Hamilton turn in money to Susan Hess, Student Council representative, while Mr. Tony Bonito looks on. His Senior homeroom was the highest-selling one of the sale.

The second top-five salesmen and their prizes are: Mary Ellen Hensel, 6 th place, who wins a radio; Thomas Barden, 7th place, whowins $$ 35$ or a gift certificate; Kim Barrymore, 8th place, who wins $$ 30$ or a gift certificate; Nancy Hamilton, 9th place, whowins $$ 25$ or a gift certificate; and Wayne Sparling 10 th place, who wins a $$ 25$ Government bond.

The Elements, Dale George, Stephen Gray, and Kenneth Krell provide the evening entertainment for the Turn-A-Bout dance sponsored by the Junior Class in November.

Enthusiasm for outside activities

One and all, they made it out into this winter night in January and came to help make the First Anniversary dance at Northern a big success. All the latest steps are shown here while the students from both Port Huron High and Northern dance to the music of the evening.

Kathryn Koch, Frederick Jacobsen, Richard Johnson, and Charles Kelly demonstrate some of the latest devices from Bell Telephone at a special assembly.

The skit represents the MAD party in which David Eppley runs for the office of president, and Larry Setter runs for the office of vice-president.

provides the punch for fun at Northern

These two girls (unidentified) were good enough to win a dance contest for their excellent rhythm and style. Students in the background watch them with interest at the birthday dance.

JoAnn Willis, Barbara Stewart, Mary Ellen Hensel, David Williams, and Bonnie Hallay, who presents the birthday card from Port Huron High School, admire the birthday cake. The Cascaders, Alvin Brennan and Walter Emerick, provide the music in honor of Northern's first anniversary.

Deans, Counselors help students to face

Through the systematic preparation of Miss Dorothy Kemp and Mrs. Anne Hildebrand, the Juniors find the support of their counselors and secretary to be one of dedication.

The guidance and determination of Mr. Kenneth Rapp, the Dean of the Junior class, provides the students with the enthusiasm it takes to face current and future educational needs.

The Junior class officers: Virginia Wyllie, President; Jeanine Fenner, Secretary; Kathryn Wyllie, Vicepresident; and Kay Novak, Treasurer, work hard to lead the Junior class in all school activities.

Chapter Seven Sports

Juniors are active participators as well as spectators when it comes to sports. They join with students of other grades to create a scene of ability and deternination to put Northem on top. PHN athletes develop lasting skills and good sportsmanship when in competition with atbletes of other schools. Cheerleaders and enthusiastic students create a spinited mood of tense anticipation. The Administnation, the Faoulty, and the Students are unified by Northem's goal in sports . . . Victory, and above all, good porsmanship.

Experience, through Deans and Counselors,

The Sophomore Grade Center actively moves from one day to the next under the resourcefulness of the 10 th grade Dean, Mr. William Pierce. Experience combined with the ambition of the Sophomore students paves the way toward knowledge.

Understanding and friendliness are two important factors which contribute to the successful operation of the Sophomore Class. Miss Pauline Lackie, the Sophomore Counselor, is shown with Mrs. Jean Wright, Secretary.

Chapter Nine
Clubs

Sophomons actively join the numerous clubs offered at Northem. Clubs bestow an organizational tone upon the school. They continue in the harmony of our plot as they serve not only as recreational but also as educational activities. This is accomplished by allowing the students to plan the meetings and schedule special events themselves. Student interst play a major role in the establishment of co-operation, friendship, group participation, and sound organization in clubs.

INSTRUCTOR

Enthusiasm and interest are shown by the students in Aerospace Flight Lab and Ground School. All students, sixteen years of age and older, who attend PHHS, PHNHS, or PHJC, are eligible to attend the class. Principles of flight, flight instruments, the flight computer, F.A.A. regulations, aircraft engine operation, weather, radio communication, and navigation are all studied in Flying Club. Student reports from aviation publications are made, film strips are shown, and lectures are delivered at the meetings. The club is the first step in making such a course an important and beneficial addition to the elective curriculum of the schools.

The Cessan 150 is the plane used for student instruction in Fly ing Club. Mr. Terry Zimmer warms up the plane regularly on cold winter mornings. The club hopes to obtain more airplanes for student use.

Notes

Many willing hands have contributed to the success of Norther's first yearbook, "Spirit of 66 ". Co-operation has been received at every stage of its production.

I wish to express my gratitude to all who have contributed to this success . . . the efforts of an interested Administration, Faculty, and Student Body . . . the generous support of the businessmen of the town . . . and a job well done by enthusiastic staff members.

A sincere thank you goes to the following:

Yearbook Staff
Heidi Thornley, Assistant Editor Edward Williams, Photography
Robert McCarty, Art
